Despite losing the Little League World Series, the Taney Dragons were celebrated with a parade through Center City on Aug. 27. / CHARLES MOSTOLLER

No second chance for Taney Dragons

Robbed. Fans want a rematch for the Taney Dragons, but league officials say it's impossible.

If the team that beat you cheated, do you get a redo?

Unfortunately for fans of the Taney Dragons, you don't.

Little League International announced Wednesday that it was stripping the U.S. championship title from the Chicago-based Jackie Robinson West team over improprieties in player selection — the same team that knocked the Dragons and 13-year-old 70 mph rocket-hurler Mo'Ne Davis out of the Little League World Series.

"You never want to think cheating occurs at that age," observed former WIP sports talk host Anthony Gargano. "We're talking about children, and it's so sad."

The U.S. title was awarded to the Las Vegas team Wednesday, but no mention was made of the Dragons and no rematch was announced.

"The decision by Little League International will in no way affect the level of respect that we have for the JRW players," the Dragons said in a statement.

"They should be proud of their accomplishments."

Some of the Dragons' passionate fans have demanded a rematch on social media.

"Can the Taney Dragons get a do-over for that double-elimination loss?" one tweeted.

"The Taney Dragons should have got the title," wrote another.

"That would be great — they could play on a snowy, icy field in the middle of winter," Gargano said. "The problem is, once it's done, it's done.

"Once the sin is committed, it's indelible."

Visit Metro.us to read more about the Little League controversy.

The Dragon legacy

The Taney Youth Athletic Association's major, minor and AAA baseball leagues are all already full, months before the season begins, according to commissioner Louis Cammisa.

Stripped laurels

Jackie Robinson West is far from the first team or prominent athlete to be stripped of a title.

- Philippines Little League: The Little League World Series champs from the Philippines in 1992 were stripped of their title for using eight players not located in their district and six more who were over the age limit.
- Lance Armstrong: The seven-time Tour de France champion surrendered his cycling crowns in 2012 for doping. He was also banned from the sport for life.

- Ben Johnson: The Canadian sprinter won the gold medal (and set a world record) in the 100-meter spring in the 1988 Olympics, but he was stripped of the medal after evidence surfaced of drug use.

- Muhammad Ali: In 1967 the heavyweight champion of the world was stripped of his title belt for his political activism. The outspoken boxer refused to be drafted into the Army during the Vietnam War due to religious objections.

Frack. Gov. Wolf proposes extraction tax to fund schools

An active fracking drilling pad in Susquehanna County
CHARLES MOSTOLLER

Gov. Tom Wolf proposed a plan on Wednesday to fund public education by taxing natural gas extraction.

The Pennsylvania Education Reinvestment Act would enact a 5 percent severance tax, plus 4.7 cents per thousand feet of volume on extraction.

Reasonable exemptions would be made for gas given away free, gas from low-producing wells, and wells brought back into production after not having produced marketable quantities of gas.

The plan, modeled after West Virginia's severance tax, could generate over $1 billion in fiscal year 2017, Wolf stated in the policy memorandum sent to legislators.

"Pennsylvania currently ranks 45th in the nation in the percentage of funding the state provides for public education," Wolf said. "We have seen larger class sizes, fewer teachers, and program cuts that make it more difficult for students to get a strong education."

Thanks to plentiful Marcellus Shale, Pennsylvania is now second in natural gas production behind Texas.

Wolf added that the plan would contain provisions to protect property owners who lease land for natural gas exploration.

"My proposal would continue the payments made to communities impacted by drilling that are currently funded by the impact fee," Wolf said.

If approved, the tax would take effect Jan. 1, 2016. METRO

Republican Matt Wolfe announces his campaign for a City Council at-large seat. / CHARLES MOSTOLLER

Wolfe at City Council's door

Candidacy. The former assistant attorney general announced his run for City Council.

It doesn't make sense to announce you're running for City Council outside of a closed office building, but that was exactly Matt Wolfe's point on Wednesday.

As he yanked on the locked doors of the Philadelphia Gas Works offices in Center City, a crowd of about 50 supporters and a few curious passersby on their lunch break cheered the Republican primary candidate.

"It's ridiculous to have a consumer office where the hours are at the convenience of the employer and then irrationally, they're closed on Wednesdays," Wolfe cried out, calling PGW "emblematic" of the ills of the current city council.

"Time and time again, they do things to chase jobs out of our city," Wolfe said. "We need to come together and move forward together."

Wolfe, 58, of University City, is a former deputy attorney general for Pennsylvania. He served as chief counsel of the Department of Labor and Industry under former Gov. Tom Ridge.

Wolfe ran unsuccessfully against Councilman Ed Neilson in a special election last year.

Republican Councilmen David Oh and Dennis O'Brien are the incumbents seeking reelection.

Center City. SEPTA police arrest suspect in subway rape attempt

The suspect in the attempted rape of a woman on a Center City subway platform Monday afternoon has been arrested by Philadelphia police.

The Philadelphia Police Department's Special Victims Unit charged Reginald Green, 26, of the 2600 block of Robinson Street in Southwest Philly, with attempted rape, robbery and aggravated assault in the alleged assault at 1 p.m. on Monday at Jefferson Station, formerly known as Market East.

Police say Green "led the victim into the Jefferson Station track area, where he asked for sex, and began physically and sexually assaulting the victim."

"After a struggle, the male fled on foot in an unknown direction," police said.

SEPTA police stopped Green on Tuesday, recognizing him from surveillance footage released by the PPD. He was charged after being questioned.

Take a ride. Philly shows off the belle of the bike-share: 'Indego'

The name of the long-awaited Philly Bike Share program was announced Wednesday as the program nears its launch this spring.

Indego is the name of the bike-share program, which Philly-based insurance giant Independence Blue Cross (IBX) is sponsoring to the tune of $8.5 million over five years.

"I was over the moon," said Katie Monroe, bike-share outreach coordinator for the Bicycle Coalition of Greater Philadelphia, on the new version of the Indego.

Monroe called the IBX sponsorship "a natural partnership."

IBX has said its members will get discounts on bike membership fees.

The design of the bikes debuted Wednesday will feature the Independence Blue Cross logo prominently — much like the Citibank-sponsored "Citi Bikes" in New York City.

But Monroe said the corporate logo doesn't detract from the bikes.

"I think the blue is great, they're comfortable and there's a really nice bell," she said.

Rentable Indego bikes will be available at 60 stations around the city, 24 hours a day, once the service launches.

Facts and figures

The project has a budget of about $13 million — including a $3 million capital investment from the city, $4.5 million in foundation, state and local funding, and funds from IBX.

- The program is designed to be financially self-sustaining.

Obama asks Congress to authorize military force against Islamic State

President Obama announces authorization for the use of military force with Vice President Joe Biden, Secretary of State John Kerry and Defense Secretary Chuck Hagel. / GETTY IMAGES

Lawmakers. Some predict a vote as soon as March, others anticipate it can take months.

President Barack Obama asked Congress on Wednesday to authorize military force against Islamic State that would bar any large-scale invasion by U.S. ground troops and limit operations to three years.

Republicans, who control Congress, put up swift resistance to the proposal. They say Obama's foreign policy is too passive and want stronger measures against the militants, also known as ISIL or ISIS.

With Obama's fellow Democrats wary of another Middle East war, it could be difficult for the White House to win enough support to pass the bill, even though six months have passed since the military campaign began.

Quoted

"I have directed a comprehensive and sustained strategy to degrade and defeat ISIL." Obama in a letter to Congress

The proposed resolution says Islamic State "has committed despicable acts of violence and mass execution." Its militants have killed thousands of civilians while seizing territory in Iraq and Syria in an attempt to establish a hub of jihadism in the heart of the Arab world.

They have also generated international outrage by beheading several western journalists and aid workers and burning to death a Jordanian pilot.

Both the Senate and House of Representatives must approve Obama's plan. Lawmakers said they would begin hearings quickly. Senate Republicans were to meet later on Wednesday.

Boots on the ground

Plan only allows for certain combat

The plan does not authorize "long-term, large-scale ground combat operations" such as those in Iraq and Afghanistan, as the prospect of U.S. "boots on the ground" once again worries many members of Congress.

But it does allow for certain ground combat operations including rescue operations or the use of special operations forces and it permits the use of U.S. forces for intelligence collection, targeting operations for drone strikes and planning and giving other assistance to local forces.

Ukraine. Peace talks open, overshadowed by a surge in fighting

The leaders of France, Germany, Russia and Ukraine held peace talks in Belarus on Wednesday, while in Ukraine pro-Moscow separatists tightened the pressure on Kiev by launching some of the war's worst fighting.

Rebels who tore up a five-month-old truce in January are trying to encircle government forces in Debaltseve, a strategic location that would let them link up their main strongholds.

A surge in fighting in the 24 hours before the summit, including a rocket attack that killed 17 people in government-held territory on Tuesday, could be intended to force Ukraine to accept a deal recognizing the rebel advance.

The summit was being held in neighboring Belarus under a Franco-German proposal to try to halt the fighting. Chancellor Angela Merkel and President Francois Hollande began talks with Ukraine's Petro Poroshenko and Russia's Vladimir Putin.

Schettino. He was convicted of multiple manslaughter, causing a shipwreck and abandoning his passengers.

An Italian court sentenced the former captain of the Costa Concordia cruise liner to 16 years in prison on Wednesday for his role in the 2012 shipwreck that killed 32 people off the Tuscan holiday island of Giglio.

Francesco Schettino was commanding the vessel, a floating hotel as long as three soccer pitches, when it came too close to shore and hit rocks off the island, tearing a hole in its side.

Investigators severely criticized Schettino's handling of the disaster, accusing him of bringing the 290 meter-long vessel too close to shore. The subsequent shipwreck set off a chaotic night evacuation of more than 4,000 passengers and crew.

He was also accused of delaying evacuation and abandoning ship before all the 4,229 passengers and crew had been rescued.

Prosecutors had asked for a prison sentence of 26 years for Schettino, who has admitted some responsibility but denied blame for the deaths that occurred during the evacuation.

Three Muslims killed near UNC campus

Muslim. Activists demanded that authorities investigate a possible motive of religious hatred.

A gunman who had posted anti-religious messages on Facebook was charged with killing three young Muslims in what police said on Wednesday was a dispute over parking and possibly a hate crime.

Craig Stephen Hicks, 46, of Chapel Hill, was arrested and charged with three counts of first-degree murder in the shootings around 5 p.m. on Tuesday near the University of North Carolina campus.

The victims are newlyweds Deah Shaddy Barakat, 23, a University of North Carolina dental student, and his wife Yusor Mohammad, 21, and Yusor's sister, Razan Mohammad Abu-Salha, 19. All were involved in humanitarian aid programs.

The suspect, in handcuffs and orange jail garb, appeared briefly early on Wednesday before Durham County Chief District Court Judge Marcia Morey, who ordered him held without bond pending a probable cause hearing set for March 4.

The father of the two women, Mohammad Abu-Salha, a psychiatrist in Clayton, told the News & Observer that his daughters wore Muslim headscarves and that the killings bore signs of a hate crime based on religion and culture.

"This was not a dispute over a parking space; this was a hate crime. This man had picked on my daughter and her husband a couple of times before, and he talked with them with his gun in his belt. And they were uncomfortable with him, but they did not know he would go this far." REUTERS

San Francisco Bay Area transit rider had measles on train

Commuters on San Francisco's Bay Area Rapid Transit system may have been exposed to measles last week after an East Bay resident with the disease rode a BART train to and from work in the city for three days while infectious, public health officials said on Wednesday.

The infected BART rider marks the first case of measles documented by Contra Costa County health officials during an outbreak of the virus that has infected more than 100 people in California since December.

Fewer than 10 of those cases have been diagnosed in the San Francisco Bay area. Most have occurred in Southern California, many of them linked to exposure to an infected person, believed to be from outside the country, who visited the Disneyland resort in late December. REUTERS

"Although the risk of contracting measles by being exposed on BART is low, Bay Area residents should be aware of the situation."

Glow. The world's first laser light headphones that pulse to music

Glow are smart headphones that pulse to the rhythm of your music or beat of your heart. / REX USA

Ever wanted to impress your fellow commuters with your music?

A company has launched Tron-like smart headphones called Glow that pulse to the rhythm of your music or beat of your heart.

So, while those around you hopefully shouldn't be able to hear your fast-paced dance tracks, at least your headphones will show how up-tempo you are.

The E100 Glow earbuds connect to your smartphone and feature specially designed wires that diffuse light from a laser in red, green or blue.

Using laser-driven Corning Fibrance wire allows it to curve, wrap or contour around objects while maintaining bright and uniform light.

Already the Kickstarter funding page has seen $266,564 pledged of a $100,000 goal. Estimated delivery of the headphones is July 2015.

Future plans for the headphones, which require more funding, include using an accelerometer to make Glow dance to your steps and movement, as well as the heart monitor to make the lights match your pulse.

All features work with the Android platform, although the team is hoping to develop the iPhone-compatible version beyond the basic music control features. REX USA

How about 'The Daily Show with Amy Poehler'?

ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

We're going to need a new "Daily Show" host by the end of the year, and it seems like the Internet is already rallying around "Parks and Recreation" star Amy Poehler. And why not? Her show is ending, so she could use a new regular gig. But that doesn't mean she's the only good option to take over for Jon Stewart. We've got some other ideas:

1 Samantha Bee: Why should the long-running, celebrated late-night staple look outside its own roster for a new captain? Long-time correspondent — and wife of fellow "Daily" team member Jason Jones — has put in the years of work and deserves a reward. She also has the right blend of sweetness and sarcasm to handle the guests.

2 Jessica Williams: Speaking of "Daily Show" staffers, how about helping one of the show's fastest-rising stars rise even faster? Williams has been turning in some of the show's most important work since joining the team and that could drive the future tenor of the show and help keep it relevant.

3 Vance DeGeneres: Or "Daily Show" producers could reach way back into the archives and bring back Vance DeGeneres (brother of Ellen), who left the show in 2001. Sure, DeGeneres is currently busy running fellow "Daily" alum Steve Carell's production company, Carousel Productions, but TV audiences could use another sampling of his deadpan style.

4 Patton Oswalt: Whoever takes over for Stewart is going to need to be up to his level as far as smarts go, and who better than comedy's reigning nerd, Patton Oswalt? He's got the passion, the humor and the witty self-deprecation down pat. And it would be interesting to see him in a suit on a regular basis.

5 Kanye West: We're pretty sure at least Kanye West would agree that there is literally no one more qualified for the job — or any job — than Kanye West. Well, aside from Beyonce, maybe. But of the two of them, who is more likely to take a desk job?

Kanye West hints at Taylor Swift team-up

Speaking of Kanye West, everyone's favorite level-headed cultural critic called into Ryan Seacrest's radio show yesterday to clear a few things up about the Grammys — and to hint at a superpowered pop team-up that may be in the works. Taylor Swift "wants to get in the studio, and we're definitely going to do that," West teases. And he also says Swift is something of a trouble-maker when it comes to him interrupting Beck's acceptance speech: "Taylor Swift came up to me right afterward, literally right afterward, and tells me that I should have went onstage. This is the irony of my life," he says. But it wasn't just Swift, either. "Right when that happened, everybody was looking at me, then people started [chanting my name]," he explains of his Grammys stage-rush. "OK, this didn't really happen, those were voices in my head." So, it's official. The voices made him do it.

Eddie Redmayne 'researching' cross-dressing role

REDMAYNE WITH WIFE HANNAH BAGSHAWE, WHOSE DRESS HE NO DOUBT TRIED ON AT SOME POINT THAT DAY.

Never accuse presumptive Oscar front-runner Eddie Redmayne of not being committed to his work as an actor. Case in point: The "Theory of Everything" star is reportedly deep into preparations for an upcoming film, "The Danish Girl," about the first transgender woman to undergo reassignment surgery back in the '30s. And just how is he preparing? The British actor "is literally walking around in heels and wearing his wife's clothing," a source tells Radar Online. "Eddie is taking this project very, very seriously." So our question, naturally, is who is he wearing?

"The Slap" premieres tonight at 8 p.m. on NBC. / VIRGINIA SHERWOOD, NBC

Zachary Quinto loses his temper

Interview. The actor takes a break from Spock-calm in his latest series.

"I'M DRAWN TO THINGS THAT INVITE AN AUDIENCE IN AND LIGHT A LITTLE BIT OF A FIRE TO GENERATE SOME DISCOURSE, DIALOGUE, DEBATE, AND IT DOESN'T GIVE THE AUDIENCE THE ANSWER," QUINTO SAYS. WIREIMAGE

"The Slap" represents a new kind of programming for NBC. The drama is based on an Australian show, but it's a limited-episode run with eight shows in its season and a serious list of prestige players on its roster (Peter Sarsgaard, Zachary Quinto and Uma Thurman all appear). The action centers around a group of Brooklynites whose lives are shaken up when one of them (Quinto) slaps another's misbehaving child at a barbecue.

Asked what it's like playing the person at the heart of the action, Quinto says, "It's only the center of the controversy because it's the incident. There are so many other things that are happening and there are so many other levels of complexity in each of these characters. They all have their own epicenter of disaster in their lives."

The series examines ideas of parenting in America, with a clash between the Greek immigrant family on one side of the debate, and the longtime U.S. residents on the other. Despite the fact that these people are close enough to attend a party together, Quinto says the characters will "very clearly" divide into camps, but he hopes audiences are more torn.

"If it works, there'll be a lot of going back and forth," Quinto says. "I like to hold a mirror up to the audience and I like for them to take responsibility for their feelings and their thoughts and their beliefs."

It's a new direction for Quinto, whom many know as Spock or the villainous Sylar on "Heroes."

"There's no clear-cut point of view with this story, and I like that," Quinto says.

LISA WEIDENFELD
@LisaWeidenfeld
lisa.weidenfeld@metro.us

New roles

Genre man

Though Quinto has moved on from Sylar, he's still getting into trouble onscreen. "[My character] Harry is arguably the villain of the series, but in a very human way. So for me it was about getting into a world that was not elevated or supernatural or science fiction. This is a very human world. Now that I've had the opportunity to do that, I feel a sense of closure on the villainous aspect of my persona."

THE PROBLEM WITH THE 'KICK-ASS CHICK'

Scarlett Johansson demonstrates the old-fashioned "butt pose" forced upon strong female characters. / MARVEL

You may have heard the term "strong female character" bandied about over the past few years — how we don't have enough of them or how many of them are put in "butt pose" on the posters for the movies or TV shows they're in. You know the butt pose: It's Scarlett Johansson as Black Widow with her back to us but with her head turned to gaze alluringly over her shoulder. Well, of course you can't kick ass unless you're sexy and wear form-hugging black leather. It's the law!

The problem with kick-ass chicks in movies is that no one really knows what to do with them once they finish laying waste to the bad guys. (Black Widow is an exception.) If they're too tough or kick too much ass, they have to be killed off or be brought down in some way. No guy is going to fall in love with a girl who can break him in half or outshoot him, right? Sigh.

I bring this up because if you look at your "strong female character" as a revenge catalyst, plot point or eye candy alone, you're missing the third word in that phrase. Geena Davis recently suggested that you gender swap half the characters in your script and see if they hold up. Think of an action movie and try it in your head. Interesting, right?

GEEK GIRL
JENNA BUSCH

Bonus point

Female or she-male?

The other thing we have to consider is what we think of as "strong." When we say, "That show has a lot of strong female characters," are we saying that they all display traditionally "male" characteristics? We largely put the value on "male" characteristics and treat femininity as weak or less than. Let me ask you this: Is Buffy a stronger character than Willow in "Buffy the Vampire Slayer"? Is Willow stronger than Tara?

Now, I'm not saying I have a perfect solution for this. I'm just saying that, if we want to change things, we have to start asking the questions. Enjoy the "Buffy" debate you're about to have over pizza and beer!

Changing times

Transgender performers and characters are becoming more and more high-profile, with "Orange Is the New Black" star Laverne Cox making the cover of Time and Jeffrey Tambor winning a Golden Globe for "Transparent." But before all of that, Candis Cayne was breaking down boundaries, playing the first transgender character on a network drama in 2007 on "Dirty Sexy Money."

"It's a nice feeling to know I kind of started the ball rolling with 'Dirty Sexy.'" Cayne says. "We are really the last civil rights movement, our community, you know? Of course, people can argue that, but the trans movement is kind of where the gay movement was 20 years ago. It's getting more and more and better and better, and pretty soon it's just going to be a fixture in our society."

Candis Cayne serves up horror-comedy realness in "Crazy Bitches," now on VOD. / GRAVITAS VENTURES

Candis Cayne dishes on 'Crazy Bitches'

Interview. The actress says she's just not a good screamer.

With writer-director Jane Clark's affectionately titled "Crazy Bitches," Candis Cayne gets to live out some long-held Hollywood guilty pleasures. Since it's a horror film — and something of a tongue-in-cheek one at that — it's not out of line to suggest that Cayne doesn't make it very far in the film. And that brought with it a whole slew of new acting challenges.

Someone once said the best roles to have in a horror movie are either the one who makes it all the way to the end or the first to go.

Exactly! When I read the script I was like, "Yes! I get to play the Drew Barrymore part!" It was quite an entrance, I have to say. But I loved it, it was so fun. Blake [Berris] is amazing and so cute, so that wasn't very hard. And Jane is so easy to work with, so it was good.

Which is more daunting, a death scene or a love scene?

You know, to me they're both equally daunting, to be honest with you. The love scene is easier in a way because we all have made love, we all have had those feelings, we all know how it feels. We all know how to make it look real, you know? A death scene, it's a little harder because you have to really emote the feeling that you really are getting killed. I would say they're both daunting, but the death scene is probably a little harder. And I'm not a good screamer. I sound like a duck dying or something like that.

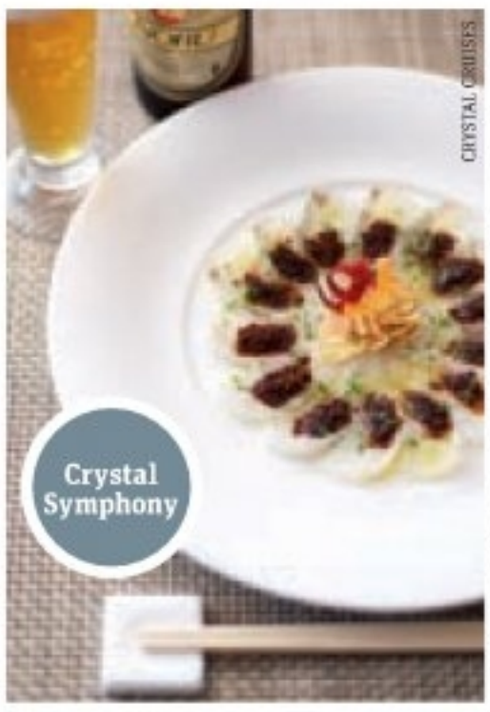
Sail into love on a Caribbean cruise

Just in time for Valentine's Day, here are five of the most romantic cruises sailing in the Caribbean this year.

There are plenty of family-friendly cruise ships plying the Caribbean, but when you're looking for something quieter and more romantic, you have to choose your ship carefully.

Crystal Cruises' Crystal Symphony

This ship does luxury the way it should be — thoughtful and attentive but also unobtrusive and warm. Before the evening magic show, dine at Silk Road, the line's Nobu-helmed Japanese restaurant and sushi bar.
One to book: Seven-day sailing from Miami to San Juan, Dec. 12; from $2,045 per person.
On-land highlights: Lie on the gorgeous beaches in Grand Turk, and toast to your love in St. Barths.



Celebrity Cruises' Celebrity Summit

This ship feels designed for lovers. At night, live music fills the halls and couples pair off to dance; during the day, hot tubs, day beds and egg-shaped chairs designed for two beckon.
One to book: Eight-day round-trip from San Juan, April 4; from $499 per person.
On-land highlights: Hike to a waterfall in St. Lucia and, when docked in St. Thomas, head over to St. John to explore the sandy bays of Virgin Islands National Park.

SeaDream Yacht Club's SeaDream II

This 112-passenger ship feels adult and intimate. Picture a watersports marina that lets you sail and swim off the side of the ship, Balinese day beds for two on deck and an "unscheduled" late-night trip to a beach bar.
One to book: Seven-day sailing from Charlotte Amalie, St. Thomas, to San Juan, Puerto Rico, March 28; from $3,499 per person.
On-land highlights: Snorkel around Treasure Island while docked in Jost Van Dyke and swim around the rock formations in The Baths on Virgin Gorda.

Silversea Cruises' Silver Whisper

This luxury line has a slightly more formal atmosphere than some of the others: Look for afternoon tea, cocktails and hors d'oeuvres before dinner. Be sure to book a table for a night in Le Champagne, the only Relais & Chateaux restaurant at sea.
One to book: Seven-day sailing round-trip from Barbados, Nov. 6; from $2,650 per person.
On-land highlights: Explore St. Vincent's beaches and check out the colonial sites of Curacao.

Oceania Cruises' Oceania Riviera

This 1,250-passenger ship has an elegant atmosphere, with suites designed by Ralph Lauren and a restaurant helmed by Jacques Pepin himself. The wine bar has pairing dinners you won't want to miss.
One to book: Ten-day sailing round-trip from Miami, March 22; from $2,799 per person.
On-land highlights: Hit the beach in Tortola or take a horseback ride in Cayo Levantado on the Dominican Republic.

Three tips

Choosing an itinerary

Caribbean cruise itineraries can be confusing. Here's some advice to help you sort through the options.

1. Check out a map
Cruise lines call the itineraries "Eastern Caribbean," "Southern Caribbean" and "Western Caribbean," but these routes change from line to line and even from sailing to sailing.

2. Go small
The smaller the island, the less likely you will see other ships lined up in the port or overcrowded sites.

3. Price out the flights
Some of the most interesting routes start in the Caribbean — from San Juan, St. Thomas or Barbados — but the plane tickets can be a lot more expensive than sailing out of Florida. In addition, sailings that start in one port and end in another can also mean more expensive plane tickets.

Mush! Dogsledding in Vermont

Maybe it's a secret longing to run Alaska's Iditarod, but there is something inherently exciting about the idea of gliding through a snow-covered landscape on a sled pulled by a team of huskies.

October Siberians

Fortunately, you don't have to travel further than Vermont to experience the thrill of mushing. The basic adventure lasts an hour or two. Many outfitters allow you to take a turn running the team (with the guide sharing the controls). Other options include night rides, hands-on lessons, overnight trips and "stay-and-sled" packages.

Guests are encouraged to romp with the dogs who "rooooo" with excitement and are deliriously happy when they hit the trail.

Here's a rundown of Vermont's dogsledders:

Peace Pups

Lake Elmore
www.peacepupsdogsledding.com, 802-888-7733
Located near Stowe and Montpelier, Peace Pups offers rides on hand-crafted toboggan sleds, tandem ride/drives, a half-day Mushing 101 course and night rides. You can also try your hand at skijoring — cross-country skiing while being pulled by a dog.

Montgomery Adventures

Montgomery
www.montgomeryadventures.com, 802-370-2103
There are plenty of choices, including a 30-minute kids' ride in the kennel grounds, moonlight rides (adults only) and one- or two-night sledding/camping excursions.

Eden Dog Sledding

Eden Mills
www.edendogsledding.com, 802-635-9070
This is an interactive experience: bonding with the dogs, and learning to harness and drive the team. Stay-and-sled packages in on-site cabins are available.

Braeburn Siberians Dog Sledding

Windsor
www.braeburnsiberians.com, 802-738-8337
Located in the Upper Valley of Vermont and New Hampshire, this spot offers 45-minute rides and two-hour excursions where passengers take turns driving the team with the guide, plus night rides.

October Siberians

Waterbury
www.octobersiberians.com
802-482-3460
Take a two-hour trip through historical Little River State Park along the Waterbury Reservoir, with interactive tandem driving with a guide and plenty of photo opportunities.

Umiak Dog Sledding

Stowe
www.umiak.com, 802-253-2317
Opt for a three-hour, hands-on immersive adventure or a 20-minute evening ride.

Husky Works

www.huskyworks.com, 802-896-3478 for day trips, 802-843-2400 for night rides
Husky Works has two locations in the Green Mountains: Stratton offers two-hour rides, while Grafton has a one-hour night ride.

Montgomery Adventures

Sip and savor at the Virginia Wine Expo

During this weeklong festival in Richmond, over 50 of the state's wineries uncork their wines, ciders and other libations.

Jefferson Vineyards

Virginia vintners and oenophiles hold their annual celebration of the grape Feb. 17–22. On Saturday and Sunday, the Walk-Around Grand Tasting features hundreds of wines, while in the run-up to the weekend, the schedule includes chefs' dinners, pairing demonstrations and culinary walking tours. Non-wine vendors sell specialty food, jewelry, home entertainment "must haves" and other wares.

Wine lovers come to the festival for chefs' dinners and culinary walking tours.

While tickets are available at the door, many events sell out well in advance, so ordering online is highly recommended. There are reduced-price tickets for non-drinkers. Particularly popular is the Friday evening Burger Blast, which features wine pairings with artisan burgers. A combo ticket for the Blast and Grand Tasting gets you into both events at a discount.

Online purchasing, hotel packages and surviving-the-event tips are at www.virginiawineexpo.com.

5 Trends you need to know

It's not often that big fashion trends start in NYC, which is often seen as the safer, more commercial cousin to the haute capital of Paris. Yet two of the biggest trends in Paris during Men's Fashion Week, just a few weeks ago, originated here: gender fluidity and athletic wear. Here are a few more we expect to snowball this year. RAQUEL LANERI

1 Risque Runways

Rick Owens caused a sensation when he showed penises on his men's runway. That's an easy way to get your brand attention.

2 Turtlenecks

The most basic of pullovers makes a perfect blank canvas, or a cozy normcore staple. Take your pick.

3 Gender-bending

Hood by Air's equal-opportunity streetwear (and casting!), Baja East's unisex sarongs, Givenchy's sequinned, made-up dudes: Post-gender fashion is no longer some utopian sci-fi fantasy. It's here!

4 Bell-bottoms

Will flares make us ditch our skinny jeans? Probably not, but designers are still pushing them thanks to the boho '70s trend.

ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

5 Rave vs. Grunge

Goodbye, flannels; hello, neon. Marc by Marc Jacobs' hit show last season made a case for bringing back '90s rave culture.

Where to go on Valentine's Day

Whether you're pro-Cupid Day or hate it with a passion, here are four classy, creepy, sexy and funny date ideas. RACHEL VIGODA

Love at the Barnes

Class it up at the Barnes, where contemporary dance company Koresh will be performing love duets while you sip champagne and eat chocolates. After the show, live music will be playing while you stroll through the galleries – which, if you haven't been yet, are jam-packed with masterpieces. $35 ($28 for members), 6 to 9 p.m., The Barnes Foundation, 2025 Ben Franklin Pkwy., www.barnesfoundation.org

FRANK BICKING

The Ex-Files

Your friends are sick of hearing about it, so here's your chance to rant about your evil ex to a rapt crowd. First Person Arts is hosting its annual anti-Valentine's Day StorySlam. Contestants from the audience get a chance to tell their true tales of heartbreak for a chance to win $100 and a spot in this year's Grand Slam competition. $18, 8 p.m., Underground Arts, 1200 Callowhill St., exfiles.firstpersonarts.org

Moonshine & Valentine: Tavern Tour of Blood, Sex and Magick

Forget roses and hearts. This Grim Philly tour takes a look at the dark side of love and sex, kicking off at Zento (132 Chestnut St.) and stopping at other Old City bars. Along the way, you'll learn about Voodoo love potions, Aztec aphrodisiacs, Roman sacrifices and more as you sip cocktails, eat chocolate and learn what the future holds — romantically or otherwise — with tarot card and palm readings. $49.99, 5:30 p.m., www.grimphilly.com

DANIEL ROBINSON

The Skivvies

Comedy music duo the Skivvies aren't trying to fool you with their name — they actually play in their underwear. It's called "undie rock," of course. In addition to stripping down and entertaining with deliciously inappropriate original lyrics and a choice repertoire of campy cover tunes, Lauren Molina and Nick Cearley will bring special guests onto the stage, including Broadway actor Adam Kantor. For $50, start the night with cocktails and snacks at Volver before heading to the show. $29, 8 p.m., SEI Innovation Studio at the Kimmel Center, 300 S. Broad St., www.kimmelcenter.org

It's complicated

For those in a new (or undefined) relationship not quite ready to commit to the pressure of candlelight and rose petals, bring your not-quite Valentine to one of these more casual spots. And remember, you can always fall back on "this isn't a date! We're just grabbing tacos!"

RACHEL VIGODA

Cafe Ynez

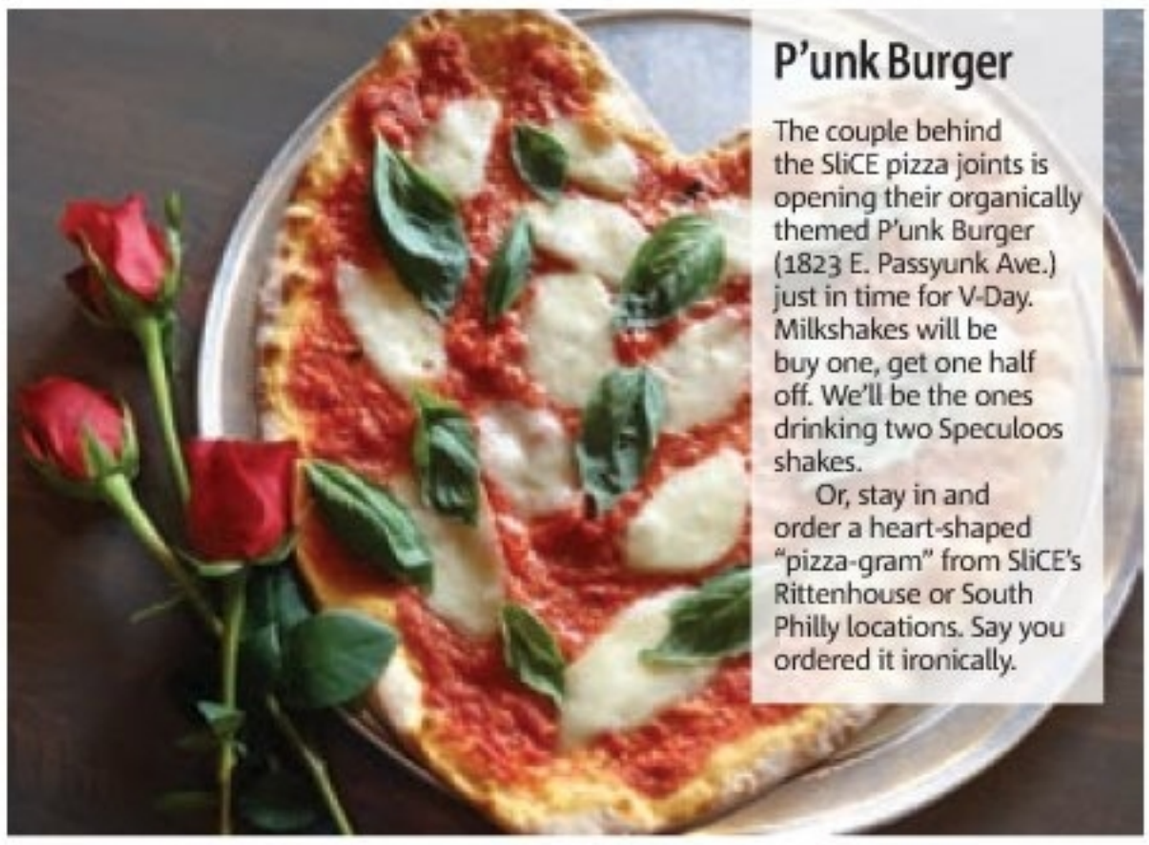
BYOT (tequila) to this tasty Mexican spot in Graduate Hospital (2025 Washington Ave.), where $30 will get you three courses of soup, salad, tacos and dessert. As for the tequila, that gets mixed with fresh fruit juice for margarita time.

Shake Shack

Bring your crush to any Shake Shack location and get a second shake free when you buy one. Share — don't drink them both.

BRU Craft and Wurst

My Smutty Valentine kicks off at Bru (1318 Chestnut St.) at 2 p.m., with 20 Smuttynose drafts $5 apiece, including vintage selections. No need to pretend to be a beer expert to impress: a Smuttynose Brewing rep will be on hand to guide you.



P'unk Burger

The couple behind the SliCE pizza joints is opening their organically themed P'unk Burger (1823 E. Passyunk Ave.) just in time for V-Day. Milkshakes will be buy one, get one half off. We'll be the ones drinking two Speculoos shakes.

Or, stay in and order a heart-shaped "pizza-gram" from SliCE's Rittenhouse or South Philly locations. Say you ordered it ironically.

The Gaslight

Pretend it's summer — and you love puns — at The Gaslight's Everyone Gets Lei'd luau party (120 Market St.), starting at 11 p.m. Share a frozen What a Floozie cocktail with your lei partner: pineapple puree, coconut, lime, orange curaçao and spiced rum for $12, or for $25 get 2.5 servings poured into a pineapple.

MOVIES

'Let the Right One In'

Friday and Saturday
Roxy Theater, 2023 Sansom St., $9-$10, 267-239-2941, www.filmadelphia.org
Philadelphia Film Society screens this creepy 2008 Swedish horror-romance, whose weird yet potent mix of young love and murder speaks to the confusion of adolescence, when you're caught between a vanishing childhood and an adulthood that's not quite arrived yet. It would be a curse indeed to be stuck forever as a 13-year-old, as the vampire heroine Eli is — so awkward!

MAGNOLIA PICTURES

TALKS

Victorians After Dark: Love and Lust in the 19th Century

Thursday, 6:30 p.m.
Laurel Hill Cemetery
3822 Ridge Ave.
$20, 215-228-8200
www.laurel-hill-cemetery.mybigcommerce.com
If you want to add a gothic twist to your Valentine's, try this talk. It'll be filled with tales of romance (and romantic scandal) from the supposedly prudish Victorian era. There's even, we're told, a sexting scandal — of sorts. The storytelling takes places before a fire promised to be roaring, with a dessert and cocktail reception afterward.

MUSIC

From PhilaHarmonia, with Love: Serenading the Senses

Saturday, 7:30 p.m.
Fleisher Art Memorial
719 Catharine St.
$22-$60, 800-838-3006
www.philaharmoniasings.com
PhilHarmonia presents an a cappella Valentine's-themed concert, with works ranging from Monteverdi to The Who. That's pretty comprehensive! But sound isn't the only sense to be serenaded, so there's also a chocolate tasting from Teuscher chocolates, and for the eyes, there's the venue itself, a glorious late 19th century Romanesque revival church.

CLASSES

The Art of the Flirt

Friday, 6 p.m.
Square One Coffee
249 S. 13th St.
Free, 215-758-6352
artoftheflirtphillymatch makingevent.eventbrite.com
Single this Valentine's? Maybe you'll fare better next year after these tips on wooing a would-be lover from local relationship coach and matchmaking expert Kristi Price. Pro tip, though: don't tell your potential mate that you attended the class. Play it cool! If you want to attend, you'll have to register online at the address above.

MATTHEW DINARO

Horoscope

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21-Feb. 18 You will have a hard time agreeing with others. Listen carefully and see if you can reach an amicable compromise rather than try to get things your way.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19-March 20 Your reputation will be questioned if you fail to honor a promise. Keep your word and be consistent.

♈ Aries | March 21-April 20 Too much idle time will work against you. Concentrate on your strengths, and work diligently. No one will interfere with your plans if you are secretive.

♉ Taurus | April 21-May 21 Don't bring work home with you. Clear your mind and make your residence a place of peace. Spend quality time with your family.

♊ Gemini | May 22-June 20 You'll have time to play after you take care of your responsibilities. Whether you are at work or school, you should play by the rules.

♋ Cancer | June 21-July 22 Share your thoughts and plans for the future. Do whatever it takes to help you reach your goal. Putting in additional hours will leave a good impression.

♌ Leo | July 23-Aug. 22 Leave yourself time to pursue a hobby or attend an event. Getting involved in a risky venture is best avoided.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23-Sept. 22 Hold off making a decision until you feel less emotional. You are not obligated to act on the spur of the moment. If someone pressures you, walk away.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23-Oct. 22 Don't allow anyone to take you for granted. You need to take your responsibilities seriously if you want to be known as trustworthy.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23-Nov. 21 A partnership is apparent. You have plenty to offer, and your qualifications will guarantee that you reach your destination.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22-Dec. 21 It's time to deal with unfinished business. A troubling personal situation will disappear once you agree to compromise.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22-Jan. 20 Responsibly deal with any debt you've incurred. Walk away from anyone who is trying to guilt you into contributing to a risky venture. EUGENIA LAST

Report Muslim murders equally

Did you hear about the three American Muslims killed in their home in Chapel Hill, North Carolina? The initial reports from the police state that the alleged killer is an atheist and posted on his Facebook page that he disliked religion.

The news didn't really hit the mainstream media — in fact, I read about it in a U.K. media outlet. Now imagine a Muslim killing three Americans. It would have been on every media outlet and playing on Fox News continuously.

Are we not fair with our perceptions on Muslims?

Radio days

Talk radio turnover

With the seismic shake-ups in Philly sports talk radio in recent months, most notably Tony Bruno joining Josh Innes on WIP afternoons, WIP alum and fan favorite Anthony Gargano might have a new home soon. Will it be at 97.5 the Fanatic? The sports personality told Metro Wednesday he is "talking to a lot of people."

GAIN A FANTASY EDGE DURING ALL-STAR BREAK

This year's NBA All-Star break is an exorbitant eight days. Most fantasy owners will use this time off to kick their feet up, take their spouse to see "Fifty Shades of Grey" and rehab paper cuts incurred during research. Don't be that guy. There are a lot of edges to be gained during this time off. Three homework assignments:

Deadline prep

An easy add is Danilo Gallinari, as the Nuggets are expected to move Wilson Chandler and/or Arron Afflalo. Reggie Jackson is also worth stashing as the Thunder have decided to roll with Dion Waiters as their sixth man. Mason Plumlee is another guy I'd try to get on my roster with Brook Lopez and Kevin Garnett both heavily involved in rumors.

Head-to-head

For owners in head-to-head leagues, playoff time is rapidly approaching. That means all our focus should be on five categories, and five categories only. Being merely mediocre across all nine categories is a surefire way to get sent home early, left scratching your head about how such a solid team got bounced. So the first step is to identify the five categories your team is best in and then make moves to bolster them. This All-Star break is a great time to swing trades.

Reflect and adjust

On the surface, it appears guys such as Greg Monroe and Michael Carter-Williams are great fantasy players. They're not. Don't fall in love with two- or three-category assets or guys who bury you in percentages and turnovers. Do go after sneaky good fantasy players like Jeff Teague and Danny Green.

Denver's Danilo Gallinari is a solid add as the NBA trade deadline approaches. / GETTY IMAGES

NFL news

A look at what's new in Atlanta:

- New Falcons offensive coordinator Kyle Shanahan is a talent maximizer — and he has plenty of talent to work with in Atlanta. The Shanahan scheme is especially friendly to "X" wide receivers, which should be music to the ears of contract-year stud Julio Jones. Jones has a great chance to eclipse the dominant seasons of previous Shanny X's like Andre Johnson (2006-09) and Pierre Garcon (2013). This scheme also runs the ball at elite effectiveness, which provides Devonta Freeman with a big opportunity.

Flyers can't afford to leave a single point on the table

NHL. Every game will grow with importance if the Flyers can stay afloat in the hunt for a playoff spot.

Ray Emery's proficiency in net will in large part determine the Flyers' fate. / GETTY IMAGES

With five wins in their last seven games and at least one point in each of the last seven games, it might seem a little unfair to pick on the Philadelphia Flyers.

The club has, for the time being at least, turned its season around and is knocking ever so lightly on re-entering the playoff race.

After a 2-1 loss in overtime to the Montreal Canadiens on Tuesday, the Flyers trailed Boston by just eight points for the final wild card spot.

However, it's fair to argue the Flyers should only be six points behind the Bruins. As well as they have played over the last two weeks, the Flyers still squandered two points during the stretch.

Those points could mean the difference between gearing up for the NHL draft lottery or the first round of the playoffs in April.

They blew a 2-0 lead in the second period and ended up falling, 3-2, in a shootout to the Islanders last week. Then, the Flyers allowed a goal with eight minutes left in regulation before losing to the Habs.

The Flyers can ill-afford to give away points when leading late in a game, especially if they plan to make a serious playoff push.

"We got a point, but maybe in a few months, this is going to be the point that's missing," Flyers defenseman Mark Streit said to reporters following the loss in Montreal. "Every game is almost like a playoff game."

It was the first game of a three-game road trip for the Flyers, who on Friday visit Columbus, where former Flyer Scott Hartnell played in his 1,000th career game on Monday, and then head to Buffalo on Sunday.

It was also the first game without the services of starting goalie Steve Mason. The team announced on Tuesday that he will miss 2-3 weeks with a lower-body injury suffered on Sunday in the second period against the Capitals. Mason had been playing his best hockey of the season prior to the setback, going 3-0-1 with a 1.25 goals against average and .959 save percentage.

Backup Ray Emery, who had been struggling, should see all or most of the time in goal. He made 39 saves on Tuesday and has allowed three goals in the last 90-plus minutes. With Rob Zepp on the IR, Anthony Stolarz was called up from the Phantoms to back up Emery.

"His numbers aren't where he wants them to be, but Ray's a proven winner," said head coach Craig Berube before the trip began. "He's won a lot of games in this league."

The Flyers are eight points behind the Bruins for the final playoff spot in the Eastern Conference. The Bruins' next game is Friday at the Canucks.

February focus

The Flyers must maneuver themselves to within striking distance of a playoff spot with just 28 games remaining this season. Here's a look at the rest of the month, a schedule containing many winnable games:

- Friday at Columbus
- Sunday at Buffalo
- Feb. 17 vs. Columbus
- Feb. 19 vs. Buffalo
- Feb. 21 vs. Nashville
- Feb. 22 vs. Capitals
- Feb. 24 at Carolina
- Feb. 26 at Toronto
- Feb. 28 vs. Rangers

The Owls' only three conference losses came without a full-strength Cummings. / GETTY IMAGES

Cummings has red-hot Temple on cusp of bid

NCAA. The Owls have won six straight games and appear to be NCAA Tournament bound.

Hope seemed bleak for the Temple Owls just a little under a month ago.

The Owls were riding a three-game losing streak, capped off by an 84-53 thumping by Cincinnati, and it seemed as if their season was slipping away. The health of star point guard Will Cummings, who could only sit and watch the beat down given by the Bearcats, was on everybody's mind.

Yet this Temple team is resilient. In the face of adversity, they've become closer as a unit. On Tuesday, the Owls (18-7, 9-3) capped off a six-game winning streak by getting their revenge against the Bearcats (17-7, 8-4). In defeating Cincinnati, 75-59, they snapped the Bearcats' 27-game streak of holding their opponents to under 70 points, the nation's longest active streak.

"The way they embarrassed us at their place was kind of an eye-opener for everyone and set a fire under us," Cummings said. "We wanted to come out here tonight and make a statement."

Nobody played bigger than Cummings, who scored a game-high 21 points, along with five assists and four steals. Jaylen Bond added 16 points for the Owls, including an emphatic alley-oop towards the end of the game from Jesse Morgan, who notched 12 points.

The Owls are suddenly back in the conversation for an NCAA tournament bid. They received six votes for the AP Top 25 this week and ESPN's Joe Lunardi currently has them as an 11 seed. They'll face American Conference leaders SMU (19-5, 10-2) and Tulsa (17-6, 10-1) on the road next week, with the chance to gain ground in the Conference standings.

"Every game is of critical importance to us," Dunphy said. "We have East Carolina on Saturday and then we'll focus on a very difficult road trip next week with SMU and Tulsa."

In his past eight seasons coaching the Owls, Dunphy has only missed the NCAA tournament field just twice – in his first year as coach in 2006-07 and last year's dreadful 9-22 team.

Fran Dunphy is on pace to match former coach John Chaney's feat of going to seven NCAA tournament's in his first nine seasons as coach, if he finds a way to get into the field this season.

SI'S SWIMSUIT ISSUE REALLY USED TO BE A BIG DEAL, SWEAR

The annual Sports Illustrated swimsuit issue is not what it used to be. That's obvious.

For years, the release of SI's second post-Super Bowl edition was one of the marquee events on the sports calendar's first quarter, right up there with the first Thursday of March Madness and Opening Day of the baseball season.

But, as video killed the radio star, the Internet killed the swimsuit model. There are no 13-year-old middle school boys waiting for hours by the mailbox on the second Wednesday in February anymore. And the window between the mailman's arrival and the time dad gets home from work is shut forever.

There is simply no skill required in viewing scantily clad women anymore.

Derek Jeter is dating 2015 Sports Illustrated swimsuit covergirl Hannah Davis. / GETTY IMAGES

No fear of bent glossy pages. Google reigns supreme.

Of course ,there's no reason to go back in time, but it is worth telling "kids these days" the hell that Uncle Matt and other boys of my generation had to go through to catch a glimpse of America's No. 1 sports magazine's No. 1 issue of the year.

The annual issue hits the streets this week and SI is painfully trying to create cash via controversy by saying that models Robyn Lawley and Ashley Graham are "plus-size." This obviously grabs the attention of both the male and female demo as both want to (no pun) weigh in on contrived labels. It's a clever ploy by the cash-strapped SI, a magazine that laid off its entire roster of staff photographers last month (because Sports Illustrated makes sense without the 'Illustrated,' right?).

One smart move the mag made for its 2015 issue was getting in some photos of UFC bantamweight champ Ronda Rousey, who has appeal across the board. And of course, SI is always hoping for its next Kate Upton.

IMO, the best SI swimsuit covers of all time (aka, the iconic images that put me through puberty):

2. Daniela Pestova, 1995
Brought the nipple to the national stage nearly a decade before Janet Jackson.

3. Kathy Ireland, Elle Macpherson, Rachel Hunter, 1994 The undisputed queens of the SI swimsuit issue, this trio laid the foundation.
